Dear Joshua,

I hope this note finds you in good health, settled in your new post, enjoying New York, yet still with great affection for California.

I appreciate your further thoughts on the recombinant DNA issue and trust the new regulations are satisfactory to the scientific community while still safeguarding the health and safety of the public. Indeed, this was a tough matter to wrestle with, and I hope time proves a good decision was made.

It was great hearing from you. Congratulations in your new post and keep in touch.

Cordially

Alan Cranston
